

Permeability Test Apparatus

PURPOSE

The soil permeability is a very important factor to study the behavior of soil in its natural condition with respect to water flow. The constant head method is particularly suitable for relatively coarse grained soil such as sands and gravel. For fine grained soils such as clay-like or silty soils see Falling head permeability apparatus.